The 360 is putting out (digital, when using HDMI) video and audio signals in order to produce the graphics and sound that we are all so familiar with these days.. It should have a line-in port for audio, but that's only the 3mm jack, no? Not gonna work with your regular cables.. I believe the iMac has a mini-DVI port for use with external displays, but, there is no input port to complement it.
